I love it when they think it is every ones fault. When a Private Development or property sets standards and guidelines up, if you fail to meet them, you are not welcome there. And when they and their tic tac law degree come back after being notified, they are in violation and need to leave. They Are Trespassing. If you need some extra "hands on help" just give us a call. It sounds like ignorpidity is running rampant up there. I may not have a cure for it, but we can help provide a treatment plan.
